ABOUT ASI

Adventist-laymen's Services & Industries (ASI) is a membership-based organization of Seventh-day Adventist lay-people who are enthusiastic about actively participating in the church's worldwide mission.

This unique and diverse group of approximately 1,000 members in Europe ranges from business owners to individual professionals to supporting ministries. In short, ASI members are Adventists from every walk of life.

ASI's philosophy promotes a Christ-centered lifestyle, manifested by a commitment to be in daily partnership with God. ASI members seek to experience God's love in their own lives and share that love with the people they encounter in their everyday work and activities—hence ASI's motto "Sharing Christ in the Marketplace".

Furthermore, ASI is committed to supporting the Seventh-day Adventist Church and its various outreach programs; which include health, education, evangelism, community services, family concerns and special projects.

ASI's history is rooted in Madison College, an Adventist self-supporting institution established in 1904 near Nashville, Tennessee by E.A. Sutherland and Percy Magan. As Madison expanded it began to plant satellite schools and institutions around the country. In 1947 these self-supporting entities formed the Association of Seventh-day Adventist Self-Supporting Institutions, or ASI.

At the time, ASI members were educational or health outfits. Over the years however, ASI membership began to include businesses and Adventist entrepreneurs and professionals. Thus in 1979, to better reflect ASI's diverse membership, the organization's name was changed to Adventist-laymen's Services & Industries

VISION AND MISSION

ASI – is an organization of Seventh-day Adventist church members who work in the private sector in business and professional vocations as well as Adventists who own and operate a wide variety of support ministries. The uniqueness of the organization is twofold:

The ASI philosophy promotes a Christ-centered lifestyle, manifested by a commitment to be in daily partnership with God. Members seek to live out God's love in their own lives and share that love with the millions of people they encounter in their business and professional activities each year—hence the motto "Sharing Christ in the Marketplace". They are tied together for fellowship, mutual inspiration and encouragement.

ASI and its members will be known for their unswerving honesty in business principles and practices, unflinching participation in the various ministries of the Church, unwavering positiveness toward Church leadership, unhesitating provision for the needs of others, and untiring focus on the Christ they represent in the market place.
